DESIGN & DEVELOPMENT

DISCOVER THE BEST IN WEB DESIGN AND DEVELOPMENT

WEBSITE AND E-COMMERCE DESIGN POLICIES

Website Design Ownership

Once we finish your website design and you've paid for the services, you own the website. You're free to use the site to promote your business or organization, whether or not you continue with our services.

However, you can't resell the design or development to others.

Domain Name Ownership

Website domain names are leased from registration companies. When I register a domain for you, it's registered under your name. Once any outstanding fees are settled, you can continue to use the domain, even if you don't continue with my services. Please note, domain name renewals and fees are your responsibility.

If you'd like me to handle the renewal, there will be an additional fee. I recommend keeping an eye on your domain's renewal date and confirming the renewal. I'm not responsible for expired domains.

Content Ownership & Copyright

All text, images, videos, and graphics on your website need to be provided by you (unless you've hired me to handle the content). You must own or have permission to use all content you submit. It's your responsibility to ensure your content doesn't violate any trademark or copyright laws.

I'm not liable for any intellectual property violations or issues related to the content you provide. Please avoid sending irreplaceable materials like photos or documents via mail.

Getting Started with Your Project

To kick off your project, I'll need you to sign an estimate or contract, pay ⅓ of the initial fees for custom websites, and send over your logo or any content needed for the design.

Timeliness, Delays, and Responsibilities

I can't complete your website if you don't provide the content (text, images, videos, etc.) or any other required elements (like a logo or login information). It's essential to stick to the timeline for your project. If there are delays on your end, the project could be postponed.

I'll give you a timeline for submitting your content and work with you to make sure everything fits our requirements. If I'm waiting on you for content or information, you'll be notified.

If you need help with graphics, SEO, or branding, I offer those services at an extra cost.

Please notify me if you anticipate any delays. While I'm flexible, I may not always be able to adjust the timeline. If you don't handle requests promptly, I may put the project on hold, and you'll be billed for the time spent up to that point.

I'll do my best to help get things back on track, but if delays continue, I'll finish as much of the project as I can and send you a final notice. If I don't hear from you within five business days, the project will be considered terminated, and you'll be billed for the remaining balance.

Content Submission Guidelines

I prefer you submit your content via Google Drive. I'll set up a project folder for you on Google Drive.

Please ensure text is selectable (not as images) and that images are high-quality and fully editable. Acceptable file formats include Photoshop PSD, JPEG, TIFF, Illustrator AI, EPS, PNG, and Word files. Label everything clearly with the page it belongs to.

I don't accept content via mail, fax, or physical copies. If you need to submit something this way, I'll need prior approval, and there may be a surcharge. If the files don't meet the standards, I won't be able to use them, and additional image prep fees might apply.

Handling Website Revisions

I aim to create beautiful designs, and most clients are happy with my work. However, I understand that design can be subjective. Minor revisions are included, but any major changes after the initial design is completed will be charged hourly at rates between $125–$175, depending on the scope.

Design preferences (like colors, layout, functionality) should be shared during the discovery phase. If I don't meet the initial design request, I'll make the changes at no extra charge. Any design changes after the fact will be billed hourly.

Sub-Page Design

Sub-pages will usually follow the same design as the homepage, unless otherwise specified. Pages like the contact page, blog, or product pages might require additional design or features, which could cost more. Please let me know upfront if you want specific designs for sub-pages.

Website Maintenance Requests

Clients with a regular maintenance plan receive discounted rates for updates. You can request changes via email, and I typically complete them within 3–4 business days if they fit within your plan's time limits.

If you need more maintenance than your plan includes, I'll send you an estimate. Once approved, the work will be done at a rate of $95/hour. Clients not on a maintenance plan can still request updates, but those will be billed at $125/hour.

Maintenance plans are separate from hosting fees and can be canceled at any time.

Technical Support

If your website is hosted with me, you'll have access to emergency technical support 24/7. In case of any website issues, just email me, and I'll respond within 6-24 hours depending on the issue. I'm here to help with hosting-related issues but can't provide support for computer problems or third-party services.

Payment and Billing

I'll outline your payment plan in the contract, including a deposit and any progress payments. Once the balance is paid, your site will go live, and I'll register it with Google.

Ongoing services like hosting, SEO, and e-commerce support are billed every 3, 6, or 12 months. Invoices are sent via email, and payments can be made via credit card or bank transfer. If you're going through financial hardship, let me know, and we can discuss payment options.

Search Engine Guarantee

While I use search engine-friendly techniques to help improve your website's ranking, I can't guarantee specific results. Factors like search engine algorithms, competition, and trends are constantly changing. I'll make sure your website is optimized for search engines.

Service Plans

I offer maintenance plans for website updates, speed optimization, and SEO. SEO plans require a 3-month commitment, as results take time. After the initial period, plans renew automatically, but you can switch to a month-to-month plan anytime with a 30-day written notice.

Quality Guarantee

I pride myself on high-quality work, but I can't control everything. It's up to you to regularly check your website and services to make sure they're working as expected. If there's an issue, let me know right away, and I'll fix it. However, I'm not responsible for any loss of revenue or third-party tech problems.

Mobile Functionality

I know how important mobile-friendly websites are for SEO. I'll make sure your site looks great on all devices, but not every function will work on every mobile device out there.

Service Termination

If you decide to cancel during the web design phase, I'll charge you 50% of the project cost, plus any hours already worked. Depending on the work completed, this could result in a partial refund or an additional fee.

To cancel any services, please provide a written request to ensure there's no service interruption.

Third-Party Vendors

I can't be held responsible for issues with third-party services. If you're working with another provider, make sure you understand their terms.

Refusal of Service

I reserve the right to decline business with any client at my discretion.

Policy Changes

The terms and policies may be updated as needed. You'll always be notified of any changes.
